Corporate Genealogy Narrative

Dynamic Associates Inc. (DAI) was incorporated in Nevada on November 18, 1996,¹ and began operations as a publicly-traded shell company under SEC File Number 000-19457. DAI claimed to raise $30 million in capital (with $8.6 million documented) and asserted a market capitalization of $70 million.² Under the leadership of President and CEO Jan Wallace, DAI pursued a strategy of acquiring healthcare management businesses, including Genesis Health Management (operating 32 rural hospitals across 7 states), Microthermia Inc. (a San Jose-based medical device technology company), and P&H Industries (a California manufacturing company that was sold for $5 million).

On December 4, 1997, DAI created MW Medical Inc. (MWMI) as a wholly-owned subsidiary.³ MWMI was spun off to DAI shareholders on March 11, 1998, on a 1:1 basis, with each DAI shareholder receiving one share of MWMI for each share of DAI they held.⁴ Jan Wallace served as President and CEO of MWMI, with Michael A. Cane, Esq. providing legal counsel from offices in Las Vegas, Nevada.⁵ MWMI raised $9 million in documented capital and claimed a market capitalization of $100 million.⁶ P&H Industries was transferred to become a subsidiary of MWMI following the spin-off.

While DAI and MWMI were operating as separate public entities with overlapping management, financial distress emerged. On January 22, 2002, MWMI filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection,⁷ with Jan Wallace positioned as the sole secured creditor holding $615,871+ in promissory notes secured by all company assets in first-priority position.⁸ Through the bankruptcy reorganization plan, MWMI created multiple subsidiary entities with 95% ownership stakes distributed to various parties: MW Asia/NW Asia (Nevada) to Grace Sim for wage claims, MW Europe (Nevada) to Dean Drummond for wage claims, NW South America (Nevada) to Tyler Brown for wage claims, MW Fitness (Nevada) to Jan Wallace for the unsecured portion of her secured claim, and Microwave Debtor (the reorganized MWMI entity itself) with 95% ownership to Jan Wallace.⁹¹⁰

On December 6, 2002, MW Asia was contracted for sale to an entity identified as Beardmore for $250,000,¹¹ representing an early attempt to monetize the bankrupt entity's shell companies. MWMI emerged from bankruptcy on June 24, 2004, approximately 2.5 years after the filing, and immediately changed its name to Davi Skin Inc.,¹² pivoting from medical technology to the skincare and cosmetics business. Jan Wallace continued as Chief Executive Officer, with Kyleen Cane (formerly Michael A. Cane) serving as Director.¹³ Davi Skin Inc. faced civil litigation, including the Parrish Medley v. Jan Wallace case filed on April 21, 2006.¹⁴ The SEC ultimately revoked Davi Skin Inc.'s registration on August 27, 2012, for failure to file required reports.¹⁵

Simultaneously with the MWMI bankruptcy proceedings, DAI underwent its own transformation through a reverse merger. On June 12, 2001, Tele-Lawyer Inc., a private legal services and technology company founded in May 1989 by Michael A. Cane,¹⁶ acquired DAI through a share-for-share exchange accompanied by a 153-to-1 reverse stock split, resulting in 99.3% dilution of existing DAI shareholders.¹⁷ Jan Wallace and Grace Sim resigned as officers and directors on the same date. Michael A. Cane changed his name to Kyleen E Cane, effective June 28, 2001.¹⁸ The merged entity was renamed Legal Access Technologies Inc. (LATI), retaining DAI's CIK number 0000878146.¹⁹ Kyleen Cane acquired 48.7% controlling interest (2,871,051 shares) through the merger exchange and served as CEO and President of LATI.²⁰ The company operated in the legal technology and services sector until voluntarily deregistering with the SEC on August 30, 2006, via Form 15-12G.²¹

The genealogy reveals a pattern of related-party transactions, with Wallace and Cane maintaining control across multiple corporate transformations, bankruptcies, reverse mergers, and business pivots, while utilizing secured creditor positions and wage claim allocations to retain ownership through reorganization proceedings.
